109 W. Wilkes Allen's Answer

Chelmsford Sept. 10. 1803.

To the Church & Congregational Society in Chelmsford

Brethren

As the great Head of the Church, when he was about to ascend on high, appointed a ministry of reconciliation to be transmitted down to the end of the world; and as it hath pleased him so far to gratify my long and constant desire of taking part in this ministry as to afford me an opportunity by your unanimous request, of entering upon the solemn work under circumstances, no less honorable to you, than flattering to me, I am induced by the prospect before me, & by the hope of divine blessing, to accept your invitation to become the gospel minister of Chelmsford.

The conditions on which my acceptance of your invitation is founded, are so explicite, that no misunderstanding can arise. I have only to make the usual reserve of one or two sabbaths annually, should I be so disposed, for the purpose of visiting my friends and relations at a distance.

Your ample provisions for the support of the ministry, while they evince your readiness to serve God with your substance as well as with your hearts, encourage me to hope that the liberal giver of every good and perfect gift, will cause you to reap from the temporal seed, so liberally sown, a rich and invaluable harvest of eternal blessings.

Your constant and laudable zeal, well known for many year, in maintaining the gospel among you, and the Christian spirit which has been exercised toward one another & toward those, who have successively ministred in holy things, afford reason to expect the same candor, & zeal in future.

Trusting that I shall ever meet with your ready cooperation in every thing tending to promote religious knowledge & improvement, that I shall be among a people, zealous to provoke one another to love & good works who will exercise toward me that kind affection & christian charity, which the important trust I am to receive, the imperfections common to all men & my own particular infirmities necessarily require, I humbly invoke the God of all grace to enable me to discharge the ministry, which I shall receive of the Lord Jesus, in such a manner, that we all may rejoice in the day of the Lord, & be found worthy to stand before the son of Man.

I am brethren, with due respect yours to serve in the gospel
